ARTISTS CREATING INTERACTIVE DEMOCRACY

Let Fury Have the Hour

Tuesday, October 9, 2012; 6:30 pm

Q&A with

Antonino D'Ambrosio, Filmmaker

Tom Morello, Rage Against the Machine and Audioslave;
Cofounder, Axis of Justice

DJ Spooky

Geoffrey Gilmore, Director, The Tribeca Film Festival

Additional artists to be announced.

With an exhilarating mash-up of art, music, animation, and performance, filmmaker Antonino D'Ambrosio provides a visionary blueprint for a participatory society. Uniting fifty writers, painters, poets, musicians, activists, and skateboarders in a mixed media montage, Let Fury Have the Hour imagines how culture and politics can be transformed radically with a "creative-response." Based on D'Ambrosio's book about the punk era, the film features instructive comments from such artists as Shepard Fairey, Eve Ensler, Chuck D, and Billy Bragg. After the screening, our panelists will consider the film's message in light of the upcoming presidential election and discuss concrete ways in which the seemingly impossible can become possible.
